

BERLIN SMASHED AGAIN BY YANK BOMBERS

Meandering Along the Main Stem By WASH FAYETTE

A few mornings ago when there was a great deal of frost and the still air permitted heavy smoke to go straight upward, I saw the smoke from a D.T. & I. locomotive just south of town, that had reached several hundreds of feet in the air, looking like a distant volcano belching smoke into the heavens.

I recalled a number of years ago while driving from North Bay, Canada, after seeing the Dionne quins, across the last east and west highway (280 miles of wash-boarded gravel road) to Sudbury and the Soo, of beholding an unusual sight at Sudbury.

When some 15 miles from the huge smelter of the International Nickel and Copper Company west of Sudbury, yellowish smoke and fumes from the 600 foot stacks of the plant reached several thousands of feet into the heavens and mushroomed out at the top until it seemed that a huge volcano was sending up smoke and ashes. As we drew nearer to the great plant, which we later visited and which is the largest plant of its kind in the world, we discovered that fumes from the great plant, before the 600 foot stacks were built (three times higher than the stack of the Dayton Power and Light Co. in this city), had killed practically all vegetation for miles around the plant, leaving the granite hills and small valley denuded of all trees and vegetation generally.

The assistant manager of the mammoth plant gave me some exceptionally fine specimens of nickel, copper and other ores taken from the great mines which underlie much of that area and are responsible for the huge smelter.

Tragedy in all its grimness struck Mr. and Mrs. Fox Squirrel and their trio of new born babes, Friday afternoon, when a huge limb of an elm tree in the Powell yard at Columbus and Washington Avenues, on the south side of the lawn, suddenly broke loose without any warning and crashed upon the lawn, barely missing Earl Powell's automobile parked in the drive near the garage.

When the big branch, almost as large as a normal tree, crashed, it broke open the hollow limb and left three very tiny, hairless members of the Fox Squirrel family helpless and exposed to the weather.

Mrs. Squirrel escaped with a severe shaking up and Mr. Squirrel joined her in noisy barking from that part of the tree left standing.

Neither parent squirrel made any effort to save the three tiny babes which apparently had arrived quite a little ahead of time and the little fellows soon perished.

OPA LOSES 949 MEN IN THREE MONTHS

Service Puts Severe Dent in Regional Personnel

CLEVELAND, March 6.—(P)—Loss of 949 men in the last 90 days has left the regional Office of Price Administration, comprising Ohio, Michigan, Indiana, Kentucky and West Virginia, with a serious shortage, OPA officials disclosed today.

Most of the 949 men who have left the service have joined the armed forces, officials said, adding that further depletion is expected because nearly half of the present staff of 1,683 are under 38 and subject to the draft. The OPA said it needs women workers—both paid and volunteer, full-time and part-time—throughout the region.

ALLIED SUCCESSES SHUT TIMKEN GUN TUBE PLANT

CANTON, March 6.—(P)—Allied successes in weakening German airpower and changing demands of ground equipment are factors in the shutdown of the Timken Ordnance Co.'s gun tube plant, reports Col. H. M. Reedall, chief of the Cleveland ordnance district.

Officials of the local plant, a subsidiary of the Timken Roller Bearing Co., said 225 workers were employed during peak production, but that army requirements were not sufficient to maintain economical production.

Soldier Vote Bill Being Polished Up

Unemployment Crisis Coming in Future Unless Government Obstacles Removed from Civilian Production, Truman Committee Warns

WASHINGTON, March 6.—(P)—In contrast to the so-called political purge of 1938, when President Roosevelt personally campaigned the renomination of Senator Tydings (D., Md.), and other Democratic congressional candidates, the olive branch has been extended to dissidents of White House policies with the approval of the administration.

Anti-administration Democrats running for re-election this year have been offered financial and other assistance by National Chairman Robert E. Hannegan, with no strings attached. The move is aimed to present a solid front against Republican opposition. Observers here believe Mr. Roosevelt can have the presidential nomination if he wants it, and say Hannegan's proposal is a bid for support of any Democratic candidate.

Soldier Vote

Senate-House conferees put the final touches today on a service vote compromise that amounts to a legislative defeat for the administration's federal ballot advocates.

The bill probably will be called up in the Senate Thursday and its backers predict approval although they're ready for a substantial protest vote from proponents of unrestricted federal ballots for the armed forces.

An administration spokesman said the vote might be close but there was no disposition to reject the bill which emerged from three weeks of conference negotiations. It provides a federal ballot for use only if authorized by state law and to be made available only to servicemen who can't get a state absentee ballot by October 1.

Both sides of the months-old controversy—Federal vs. State Ballots—agree the bill will be the only service vote plan to get through Congress this year, even should the President kill it with a veto.

FOUR CHILDREN DIE IN BLAZING HOUSE

Trapped Upstairs, Rescue Is Bailed by Flames

CANTON, March 6.—(P)—Four children of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Shalosky perished in a fire that destroyed a duplex dwelling on State Route 62 east of here Saturday.

The victims were Niva Jane, 6; twins Lawrence and Terrance, 4; and Mary Arlene, 2. The fifth child, Myrna Lou, 7, and Mrs. Theodore Richards and her two children, who occupied the other half of the duplex, escaped.

Flames and smoke prevented Mrs. Richards and passing motorists from rescuing the children, trapped in an upstairs bedroom. The fire is believed to have started when one of the children tried to light a candle.

MURDER, INC., BOSS DIES IN SING SING

Lepke Goes To Death Without Baring Scandals

NEW YORK, March 6.—(P)—Louis (Lepke) Buchalter, one-time Brooklyn gangster chieftain, chose a killer's death rather than turn informer—which possibly would have spared him from Sing Sing prison's electric chair Saturday night.

This was indicated yesterday by J. Bertram Wegman, counsel for the head of Murder, Inc., who said:

"Buchalter had two keys in his hand. He chose to use the one that opened the door to eternity rather than the other one."

His reference to "the other one" gave point to equal testimony on the case by Mayor F. H. LaGuardia and Assistant District Attorney Burton B. Turkus, who prosecuted Lepke on the murder charge which sent him to his death.

Said LaGuardia: "Some people sweat a lot in the last few days."

Turkus said Lepke in his death house statement Saturday "was serving notice to the underworld that he was still 'Lepke the Silent' and that if he was talking he was involving only politicians."

INVASION EXPECTED DAILY GERMAN NEWSPAPERS SAY

STOCKHOLM, March 6.—(P)—German newspapers give the impression that "the invasion may be expected any day now," a Swedish correspondent in Berlin said today, describing a fresh wave of anticipatory stories in the press.

Russian troops fought today on the approaches of Volochisk on the double-tracked Odessa-Lwow railroad, exploiting swiftly a 112-mile floodgap in German lines in the western Ukraine, and gravely threatening the city.

Merger Of Country's Armed Forces Under One Supreme Command Looms

By WILLIAM FRYE
WASHINGTON, March 6.—(P)—Integration of the nation's armed forces under a single supreme command and staff in one department of war is the common aim of a growing number of American military leaders and thinkers.

As of today, the weight of opinion appears to favor post-war action on a complete overhaul of military machinery. Some highly-placed officials believe unification could be effected now, and add efficiency and speed to conduct of the war.

A major obstacle to the fact that while there is wide agreement on the desirability of streamlining, there is no agree-

SURPRISE DRIVE ACROSS UKRAINE OPENED BY REDS

Germans Are Paying Terrific Price, 24,000 Casualties, To Hold Anzio Beachhead

(By the Associated Press)
Berlin was given another dose of Allied aerial might when big American bombers smashed the German capital while Russia's Red army was piling up more bad news for Hitler's Reich by barging without Rumania through the Ukraine.

Meanwhile, authoritative sources in Italy revealed the terrific price the Germans are paying in the thus-far futile attempt to drive the Allied forces into the sea from the Anzio beachhead—a total of 24,000 casualties.

Berlin Smashed
U. S. heavy bombers in "very strong forces" bombed Berlin today in the second American blow on the German capital.

The first official announcement said "targets in the Berlin district" were hit, without identifying them further are giving other details.

This surprise follow-up to Saturday's "icebreaker" raid, by one formation of bombers, was a striking demonstration of the Eighth Air Force's might. It was the seventh operation of the heavy bombers in eight days.

Heavy fighter escorts accompanied today's formations on the round trip of more than 1,100 miles from British bases.

Precision Bombing
Thus Berlin, already seared by massive RAF night assaults, was brought under the destructive hammer blows falling by day and night.

Presumably the American daylight attacks are aimed at precision destruction of selected targets escaping the RAF's saturation raids.

The heavy bombers raced to Berlin to Allied medium and fighter-bombers attacked northern France—where Prime Minister Churchill said the Germans were preparing rocket and robot-plane installations—for the fifth successive day. Last night RAF Mosquitos attacked western Germany, without loss.

In London, Dingle M. Foot, parliamentary secretary of the Ministry of Economic Warfare, declared when resistance in the air is overwhelmed "the destruction of German war industry will follow on a far greater scale than achieved in the last few weeks."

Running Air Battle
A German broadcast declared "one of the greatest air battles of the war has been raging since 11:30 this morning over northwest and central Germany," extending from the Zuider Zee as far as the Hevel lakes near Berlin.

The radio said the air raid alarm sounded in Berlin just before 1 P. M. (8 A. M., Eastern War Time).

The Americans took a direct course to Berlin, the Germans said, and "during their incursion were continually pressed by the strongest forces of German fighter and destroyer aircraft, and were forced to ever fresh evasive maneuvers by the fire of hundreds of anti-aircraft batteries."

STOCKHOLM, March 6.—(P)—A Sofia dispatch to the Swedish press today quoted official quarters as denying foreign reports that Bulgaria was seeking a way to quit the war.

Willkie Won't Run in Ohio Primary
CLEVELAND, March 6.—(P)—Wendell L. Willkie has decided not to contest with Gov. John W. Bricker for Ohio delegates to the Republican national convention because a canvass of prospective delegates has disclosed many of them friendly to the 1940 GOP presidential nominee in event of withdrawal of Bricker's candidacy, Robert A. YANKS IN ENGLAND GET BEHAVIOR CODE

Commander Tells Them To Be Courteous To Civilians

LONDON, March 6.—(P)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, in a letter addressed "to every American serving under my command," has asked the help of all to see to it "that a very small minority does not damage the good name of the American army in the United Kingdom."

Declaring that "only a self-disciplined army can win battles," the Allied supreme commander in this theater asked everyone, officers particularly, to be especially careful concerning:

"Improper use of motor transportation."
"Drinking in public places."
"Excessive drinking at any time."
"Loud, profane or indecent language."
"Slovenliness in appearance."
"Any discourtesy to civilians."

Eisenhower said it was vital that American forces work with the British "both in the fighting services and in civil life on the basis of mutual respect, consideration and cooperation."

Jungle-Hardened Yanks in Action in Burma
NEW DELHI, March 6.—(P)—Jungle-hardened American soldiers—some of them veterans of Guadalcanal and the southwest Pacific—have gone into action in Burma, the first American ground forces fighting as a unit on the Asiatic continent.

The Americans made a great looping attack far to the left of Chinese forces operating in the Hukawng Valley, and have struck the Japanese lines nearly 10 miles behind their present front lines.

Two Tail Lights on First, from Which Man Got Out and Opened Gate, Dewey Clayton Testifies -- Second Car, With One Tail Light, Drove Through Gate 20 Minutes Later, He Says -- Defense Questions Him Closely on Cross-examination

A witness testified in James W. Collett's murder trial today that he saw two automobiles drive into the farm home of Elmer McCoy shortly before the hour at which the prosecution has estimated the hog breeder and his family were shot to death last Thanksgiving Eve.

The testimony came from Dewey Clayton, a tenant farmer employed by McCoy, and was filled with specific hours. The defense questioned each item closely in an effort to prove Collett was not in Fayette County at the time of the slayings.

Clayton related that he went to nearby Yatesville after milking that night and started back home a little after 8 o'clock. He was sitting in the kitchen of his home about 8:15, he said, when he saw an automobile with two tail lights stop at the nearby McCoy farm. A man got out, opened the gate, then drove in.

Twenty minutes later, he said, a second automobile, bearing only one tail light, drove into the farm. Clayton said he thought the first was a sedan, the second a coupe.

James N. Linton, chief defense counsel, questioned Clayton closely. The tenant farmer clung insistently to the time schedule, the only change being that it might have been a little earlier than first said when he left Yatesville.

Dr. E. H. McDonald testified he examined the bodies shortly after they were discovered Thanksgiving morning, and that he saw Sheriff W. H. Icenhower move the body of McCoy, who was shot to death in the barn.

Two Shots Heard

Two witnesses told of hearing shots and one of them said he heard the screams of a woman the night of the slayings. Asa W. Potts, who operates an adjacent farm, related he heard a single shot about 8:30. Sometime between 8:30 and 9 o'clock, he said, his wife heard a woman scream and a series of shots. Potts ran outside at his wife's bidding and also heard the screams and shooting. There were six or seven shots, he said. About 9 o'clock, he added a single shot was heard.

The state in its opening summary theorized McCoy was shot first, with a single bullet; his daughter Mildred, 22, next, also with a single shot, while Mrs. McCoy, 64, was shot last, the assassin shooting her repeatedly.

Potts said Clayton ran to the Potts farm early the next day so frightened "he could hardly tell me what happened." The two men then went to the home of Charles Griffith and notified the sheriff.

Charles Whaley testified he heard several shots that night while out for water and later heard two single shots.

He also saw a flash of light go on and out near the rear porch of the McCoy farm, where Mrs. McCoy's body was found.

After sending Robert Manns to the stand to tell of finding a .38 caliber bullet in the dirt beneath McCoy's body, the state called Sheriff W. H. Icenhower, its first important witness.

He told of finding the bodies, of a futile search for guns, and of removing a .38 caliber bullet from a door casing on the porch, two .32's out of the porch floor, and two .32's in the dirt under the porch. Mrs. McCoy, he said had been shot six times.

Morning Session Opens

A capacity audience was on hands when court opened Monday at 9 A. M., and Collett was brought into the court room, without handcuffs, by Deputy Sheriff Frank Grubbs. Many spectators stood outside the court room doors, unable to obtain admittance.

Some of the jurors had changed seats, it was noted, when the jury was seated just before court opened.

Examination of state's witnesses was resumed, and Ellis Bishop, local electrician, was the first one summoned.

Questioned by Attorney Charles S. Hire, Bishop told of going to the McCoy farm with John Ducey early Thanksgiving morning to hunt, and of seeing the bodies of the three members of the McCoy family.

711 SAIL FOR HOME ON EXCHANGE SHIP

Most Happy But for Some It Is Sad Occasion

LISBON, March 6.—(P)—The Swedish exchange liner Gripsholm headed westward across the Atlantic today with 711 North and South Americans bound for home after a long period of internment in Germany and enemy occupied countries.

Most of those aboard the ship were deliciously happy as she started her voyage at midnight last night, but for some—who have lived in Europe for many years and have family ties on this side of the Atlantic—it was a sad occasion.

Among these were several dozen American World War veterans, remnants of the 1917 AEF who remained in France after that conflict, married, raised families and were interned by the Germans when the present war broke out.

For them embarkation on the Gripsholm meant torn from their wives and children and sent thousands of miles overseas.

Major Battle In Offing For Admiralty Islands As Reinforcements Land

By RICHARD C. BERGHOLZ
(By the Associated Press)
Fighter-escorted Mitchell medium bombers ripped into Japan's hard-hit air strength Saturday, bagging from 30 to 50 enemy aircraft in a raid on Hainan Island off China's south coast, and nine more at northern Thailand air-drome, Lt. Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell's headquarters announced today.

In the southwest Pacific, a last-ditch battle for Los Negros Island in the Admiralty group is shaping up, with victory in store for the side that can rush in superior reinforcements.

And in the central Pacific, a start on the aerial campaign to reduce Japan's outer defense bases in the Caroline Islands, using newly won airbases for land-based planes, is indicated by stepped-up American air activity.

Furious Japanese attacks against reinforced American lines around quickly-captured Momote air-drome on Los Negros have been repulsed, but a spokesman for Gen. Douglas MacArthur said today there are signs of a heavy movement of enemy troops from Manus Island, largest in the Admiralties, to Los Negros.

A steady stream of American soldiers and supplies is reinforcing first cavalry division troops which raided Los Negros as a "reconnaissance in force" last Tuesday but whose operation suddenly was converted into a bid for complete occupation after an

ARMY OFFICER SHOT TO END WILD SPREE

One Killed and Two Wounded As He Runs Amuck

RIVERSIDE, Calif., March 6.—At least one person was killed and two critically wounded when an army officer from nearby Camp Anza ran wild with a .45 caliber pistol last night, police reported early today.

Police Chief Nestor Burle said he had reports two additional persons had been killed inside the army camp.

The army officer, not identified, was reported to have shot and killed a Riverside policeman named Simpson, after having previously seriously wounded Ray Schlegel, Riverside, in attempting to commandeer an automobile. The army officer, a lieutenant, then was shot and critically wounded by policeman E. S. Cole.

Military authorities would make no statement.

Lunch Time Also Is Play Time For Youngsters At Sunnyside

TABLES CLEARED OF CLASS WORK FOR NOON MEAL

Old-fashioned Folk Dances Basis of Supervised Recreation Hour

Every so often all the first grade pupils at Sunnyside school have a party at noon. The pint-sized tables where they work during classes are cleared for serving a lunch from the school cafeteria. There is music from a phonograph, too, lighted candles and decorations on the tables.

A typical lunch—served plate style—is peas and carrots, macaroni and cheese, jello, bread and butter sandwiches, milk and cookies.

Each first grader sets his own place, supervised by Miss Kathryn Williams, the teacher, to see that the silver is placed properly. There are four of the tables, each seating about ten children.

It doesn't take long to eat the lunch—school children are hungry when noon time comes and the food, steaming hot from the cafeteria, tastes good.

After the lunch, it's time for entertainment. Miss Williams turns on the phonograph for some genuine hill-billy music. Then the dancing starts.

No sophisticated ballroom choreography, this dancing is an old-fashioned Virginia reel, performed in miniature. Miss Williams calls the dance, everyone claps, even when not in the dance set.

The children enjoy dancing—it gives them the action they need after sitting all morning. They do a good job, too. Each one knows just what a dosey-do is and they get a kick out of doing it.

To add to the partied atmosphere, the children make favors to put at each place. All the other decorations are made also right in the schoolroom.

menacing all Nazis east of the Carpathian mountains and Bessarabia.

A dozen German divisions of perhaps 145,000 men were in retreat. The Russian communique at midnight suggested that the Red army already was within artillery range of the great supply railroad, rendering it useless to the Germans stretched out 450 miles to the southeast of the most advanced Russian troops.

The offensive had within it implications of Nazi catastrophe in south Russia. It was commanded by the leading military man of Russia, Marshal Gregory K. Zhukov, second only in command to Marshal Stalin. In two days, the Russians said they advanced up to 31 miles, captured 500 places and killed 8,000 Germans. Vast booty was claimed; prisoners filled cages. Lwow itself was menaced for the Russians 14 miles inside old southern Poland were within 83 miles of that rail center. Unstable Rumania was within 60 miles of Russian guns.

Italy Costly to Nazis The Germans have suffered 24,000 casualties in three abortive efforts to wipe out the Allied beachhead below Rome and the hard fighting of the past month has disrupted enemy plans for meeting the expected spring invasion across the English Channel, an authoritative source said today.

More important even than the heavy manpower losses is the fact that crack divisions which had been earmarked to meet Gen. Eisenhower's invasion have been used.

The Germans had decided that because of natural advantages of terrain they could hold the Italian front with second class troops and were moving such units—like the 14th division—into the line, it was learned.

They planned to move more crack units, among them the Hermann Goering Division, the 26th Panzer Division, the 15th and 29th Panzer Grenadiers and the 90th Light Infantry, to the channel coast. The Goering Division was in fact already aboard trains when the unexpected landing at Anzio compelled the Germans to retain all such divisions in Italy and bring in more troops from northern Italy, Yugoslavia, France and Germany.

The Italian campaign is engaging 10 German divisions, of which 10 are around the beachhead and requiring big replacements to make up for losses in killed, captured and wounded.

Weather prevented large scale weekend fighting in Italy. A small German attack near Cisterna was tossed back by beachhead forces.

Miss Kathryn Williams, in the background, calls the Virginia reel for first graders at Sunnyside School. Other children clap hands in time to the music as 12 children dance.

Mr. Walter Burnett was removed from White Cross Hospital, Columbus, Sunday morning to his home on the Comet College road in the Klever ambulance.

Mrs. Lawrence Grim (Mary Cannon) was removed from White Cross Hospital, Columbus, Saturday afternoon to her home on the Harrison Road. The trip was made in the Snyder ambulance of Mt. Sterling.

Mr. Paul E. Steel is now located with the Bel-Aircraft factory at Niagara Falls, N. Y. in the research department. He was recently graduated from the Indiana Technical School, Fort Wayne, Ind., in aeronautical engineering.

Miss Goldia Caplinger, employee of the Aeronautical Products, Inc., suffered a severely torn left thumb in an accident at the plant early Sunday morning and was rushed to the offices of Dr. N. M. Reiff for treatment. She lost most of the left thumb and after receiving treatment was taken to her home on North Hinde Street in the Klever ambulance.

Small German probes on the trans-penninsula front were repelled. The few planes that braved the weather bombed Nazi guns around the Rome area and shipping off Yugoslavia.

Chile and Bolivia had recognized the Farrell regime in Argentina. Uruguay and Paraguay were considering similar actions. Britain, the United States and other American republics shunned the regime.

on-the-spot decision by MacArthur.

At least 3,000 Japanese have been killed or wounded since the landing, MacArthur said yesterday. American losses are 61 dead and 244 wounded, he said.

In addition to relentless bombing and strafing attacks in support of the Los Negros troops, Allied airmen hit Lorengau, main Japanese base on Manus Island; smacked Rabaul, New Britain, with 164 tons of bombs Saturday, and blasted the enemy's New Guinea bases at Wewak, Hollandia and Hansa Bay.

In the central Pacific, land-based planes, apparently springing from newly-won Kwajalein or Eniwetok Atolls in the Marshall Islands, have quickened the pace of attacks against Japan's island bases in the eastern Carolines.

Ponape and Kusaie were plastered with 23 tons of explosives Friday in the third consecutive daily raid. Other American planes hit four undesigned Marshall Island Atolls.

In Burma, U. S. heavy bombers raided Japanese air bases in the south, medium bombers and fighters raked targets in the north and dive bombers supported patrol activity on the Arakan front.

29 ADDITIONAL MEN ARE SENT TO FORT THOMAS

29 Will Be Sent Tuesday And 102 Go for Tests On Wednesday

Twenty-nine Fayette County men left on the 3:38 P.M. B. & O. train for Ft. Thomas, Saturday, to enter the U. S. Army.

Wallace Noon was placed in charge of the contingent, which assembled at the Selective Service Board's office and marched to the station.

It was the first time that members of the men's families appeared in the office proper, and one three-year-old girl held to the hand of "daddy" part of the time.

A large number of relatives and friends assembled at the station to bid the men farewell.

Tuesday 29 men assigned to the U. S. Navy will be sent to Columbus, and the following day, 102 men will be sent to Columbus for pre-induction examination, and some three buses will be necessary to move them.

The men sent to Fort Thomas Saturday included:

After seeing the blood covered body of Mrs. McCoy, and that of Mildred McCoy, Bishop said they started to notify the sheriff and met others coming into the gate who said the sheriff had been notified.

Bishop testified he went to the barn with Sheriff W. H. Icenhower and saw the body of Elmer McCoy there, "slumped over the hammermill toward the door."

James N. Linton, chief counsel for the defense, cross-examined Bishop briefly. Bishop stated he was not sure whether anyone was with the sheriff and did not see the sheriff move the body. He said he saw Ducey pick up a .32 calibre cartridge and give it to Sheriff Icenhower.

Physician Describes Scene

Dr. E. H. McDonald was the second witness called at the morning session. Questioned by Prosecutor John B. Hill, Dr. McDonald testified he knew the McCoy family and met Sheriff Icenhower at the farm Thanksgiving morning. He said he accompanied the sheriff to the barn where he saw the body of Elmer McCoy slumped forward over a pool of blood. Sheriff Icenhower moved the body slightly to the left, he said. He saw a partly smoked cigar and steel tape measure in the pool of blood, and the belt of the feed grinder was partly rolled up, he stated.

Dr. McDonald testified that Elmer's face was upon the pulley of the feed mill. Shown a large picture of the scene showing McCoy's body leaning against the feed mill, the witness pointed out where the body was found before it was moved. He said Sheriff Icenhower picked up the cigar stub and tape measure, which were shown in the picture.

He said examination showed Elmer had been shot in the back of his head; Mildred had been shot in the back of the head and the bullet came out under the skin above the right temple.

The bullet removed from Mildred's head, a .38 calibre lead bullet, was offered in evidence, and marked exhibit 12.

Dr. McDonald said he found many wounds in Mrs. McCoy's head and body, and removed a .30 calibre bullet from her body, which was also offered in evidence.

Under cross-examination by Linton, Dr. McDonald said he did not observe powder burns about any of the wounds, due to the wounds being blood covered.

Dewey Clayton Testifies

Dewey Clayton, McCoy's farm hand who discovered the bodies, was placed on the stand. He was garbed in blue denim overalls with large checkered shirt and wore heavy work shoes such as usually worn by farm laborers.

Under direct examination, Clayton told of doing the milking Thanksgiving eve at the McCoy place, and of going home about dusk. He then told how he ate supper and with his wife and sister-in-law, drove to the Nellie Coe store at Yatesville, spending about 30 minutes there while his wife and sister-in-law did the buying, leaving there about 8 o'clock, returning home, shaving, drinking two cups of coffee and going to bed.

Two Cars Seen

While he was in the kitchen after returning home "about 8:15," he said, he saw a car come down from the Prairie Road, stop at the McCoy barn lot gate, and a man get out and open it. The car drove up to the southeast corner of the barn, made a left turn, stopped at the door, and then, after a minute or so, backed up, turned toward the house and stopped back of the house facing the road.

He testified he could see it was a man who opened the gate, and that the man got out of the left side of the car, which had two tail lights on it, and the headlights were set in the fenders.

Twenty minutes later, he said, another car, apparently a coupe, drove into the McCoy gate and into the barn lot. After that he went to bed, he said.

The next morning he went to work at 7 A. M., went in the front yard gate, obtained the milk bottles and started toward the barn when he saw Mildred's body beside her car, he testified.

"I dropped the two milk buckets, whirled around, and saw the body of Mrs. McCoy. I ran home and then ran to the Potts home where I told Potts:

"Mrs. McCoy and Mildred have been murdered."

Then he and Potts went to the Charles Griffith home to notify the sheriff, he said.

Cross-Examination

Cross-examined by Linton, Clayton did not change his original story materially, and state's attorneys objected frequently when Linton asked questions over and over after they had been answered by the witness, chiefly regarding exact time, although Clayton stated he had no watch and was "judging" time, except when he saw a clock in the Coe store at Yatesville which showed 7:45 o'clock.

"I want to get the element of time established," Linton said during the close questioning of Clayton as to what time he reached home.

Clayton said the sun was just about half showing over the horizon when he started with his work the evening of the crime, and that it required about 50 minutes to do his work and reach home. He last saw Elmer McCoy alive Thanksgiving eve about dusk, he said.

Clayton "guessed" it took him 10 minutes to get ready to go to Yatesville.

"I ate supper in about six minutes and shaved in about three minutes," Clayton said, in telling how long it was before he started for Yatesville.

It was "8:15 to 8:30 when I saw the first car," Clayton testified. Still under cross-examination, Clayton said it requires about 10 minutes to drive the six miles to Yatesville and about the same time to drive home. He estimated it required five minutes to drink two cups of coffee before retiring.

"Did you shoot Elmer McCoy?" Linton suddenly asked.

"No, sir," replied Clayton.

He first said when he saw the clock in the Coe store it was "about 8 o'clock, and later said it was a 'quarter to eight.'"

He estimated the 24 inch clock on the court room wall to be one foot in diameter, and said the clock in the Coe store was about half that size or "six inches across."

Court recessed at this time for 15 minutes.

Time Element Stressed

After a brief recess the cross examination of Clayton was continued by Attorney Linton for the defense. The greater part of this cross examination was an effort by Attorney Linton to pin down Clayton to an accurate statement as to the time of his actions between the time he left the McCoy barnyard after doing his evening milking, the time he spent at his home, the time he spent at Yatesville where he had gone with his wife and sister-in-law to purchase supplies, until the time he saw the car drive into the barnyard. He had set the time as somewhere between 8:15 and 8:30. During his cross examination Clayton stated that when he saw this car he could not see any person in the car.

He also stated that after he saw this car he had gone to bed. He heard no shots or screams.

Heard Shots And Screams

The next witness called was Asa Potts, a neighbor, who stated he was living about 350 yards from the McCoy home.

On direct testimony Potts related how, on the night of Thanksgiving Eve, somewhere around 8:15 o'clock, he had gone out on the back porch to get some coal and heard one shot. He had thought Elmer probably was shooting a rabbit or pheasant. Probably about 15 minutes later he said, Mrs. Potts who had gone to the back porch, called to him, saying that she had heard a woman scream. He again went out on the porch and heard screams and 6 or 7 shots. At that time a car with tail lights burning was standing there. He had noticed this car when he had heard the first shot.

He said the next morning he had gotten up about 5 o'clock and saw what he took to be the same car with tail lights burning still standing in the McCoy barn lot.

THE WAR TODAY

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Few recent war transactions have created greater international speculation (and downright heartburning in the case of Italy) than the unexplained announcement that the Anglo-American Allies are turning one-third of the Italian navy over to Russia.

The curiosity of Hitler's soothsayers, among others, is at white heat. Especially concerned, of course, are the Italians, and hard-boiled old Premier Badoglio has expressed pained surprise that his government wasn't even advised of the deal.

Well, one can understand the marshal feeling hurt, but there's small ground for surprise in his shrewd mind. While the Allies hope to see Italy prosperous and happy after the war, she should understand thoroughly that she's going to pay dearly for her aggression.

Part of the price will be military impotence. Loss of her once fine navy is one of the penalties for helping cause millions of deaths and untold destruction. It's one of the penalties for shortening the lives of all of us by the number of years which have to be devoted to war—nine years if you count the last war, and the end isn't yet in sight. That's an eighth of man's span of life.

It strikes me that the importance of this deal doesn't lie so much in the question of what the Soviet intends to do with the ships as in these two aspects of the situation: (1) the fact that the Italian navy is being split up, and (2) that it's being divided among the Allies, apparently on the basis of share and share alike.

Naturally this tiny handful of ships isn't going to turn the war upside down. They might be helpful in Mediterranean operations, manned by Red crews. They would be particularly useful if they could be got into the Black Sea to help clear the Germans out of the Crimea and turn their right flank in Russia. However, before Allied ships can be sailed into the Black Sea we must have Turkey's permission to pass through the Dardanelles and, more to the point, the Hitlerites must be cleaned out of the Aegean islands which block the entrance to the Dardanelles from the Mediterranean.

Anyway, of much greater importance is the fact that the Allies are in process of carrying out their oath to render the Axis powers impotent militarily and punish war guilt. Germany and Japan can see in this a preview of what's going to happen to their own navies and armies and air forces.

However, there's something even bigger than that involved in this disposition of the Italian fleet. It's a symbol of solidarity among the three dominant powers—America, Britain and Russia—a unity upon which the peace of the world most certainly depends.

DNB, the official German news agency, professes to see in this move a proof of the "devoted exactness with which the Anglo-Americans try to satisfy the Kremlin." That's a purposely nasty way of saying something which is a partial truth.

It isn't a question of "satisfying" the Kremlin. It's a matter of adjusting questions on the basis of one for all and all for one. Each of the Allies is, according to his own talents, pulling his weight in the war. Each, therefore, is entitled to equal consideration with the rest.

Russia doesn't happen to be doing much on the seas, but she is waging mighty war on land. Therefore, if she has any use for part of the Italian fleet, she gets it. Next time it may be Russia who will make a concession to one or both of the other major Allies. Our greatest statesmen are agreed that so long as there is this give and take among the Big Three we are on the road to world peace; the moment the give and take ceases, we are in fresh trouble.

STENOGRAPHERS ARE WANTED AT WRIGHT FIELD

Salaries Range from $1,560 To $1,752 Per Year for Workers

The U. S. Civil Service Commission states that stenographers and typists are needed immediately to carry on the vital war work of the federal establishments in the Dayton area.

The Material Command of the Army Air Forces located at Wright Field is the nation's assurance that its military aircraft equipment and supplies are the best and most modern that man can produce and that these are ordered and produced quickly and efficiently in quantities sufficient for winning the war.

The Air Service Command at Patterson Field is responsible for the storage, maintenance, and repair of all U. S. Army aircraft in all fighting theaters of war.

The Veterans Administration hospital in Dayton maintains facilities for rehabilitating returning disabled veterans. These and many other federal agencies, including other War and Navy Department installation concentrated in the Dayton area need stenographers and typists to carry on important work connected with the war effort.

Dayton offers all the interest and excitement of a big time city at war. Public, semi-public, and private organizations, offer facilities and leadership in all types of leisure time activities. Dayton has an art institute which offers day and night classes in all branches of art for all age groups at all levels of skill; its own philharmonic orchestra which presents a fall and winter series of concerts. Opportunities in dramatics are offered by the YMCA and also the Antioch College group. Housing facilities will be available to persons accepting appointments.

Salaries range from $1,560 to $1,752 per year based on a 48-hour work week. Stenographers and typists not presently employed at their highest skill in war production work are urged to apply at the local USES office at Washington C. H. on Wednesday or Thursday, to be interviewed for appointment to one of these important war positions.

LITTLE CHATS ON PUBLIC NOTICES

By JAMES E. POLLARD
Copyright 1943

"HERE I COME"

It has long been regarded as both polite and necessary to give warning of one's impending arrival. Even the members of one savage tribe, for instance, when they are about to visit a neighboring camp halt some distance away and build a fire to give warning of their coming. In the Orient ordinary politeness calls for a servant to be sent ahead to announce one's coming.

Certain common social customs have their parallels in the law. One such has to do with the basic principle of the Public Notice. The person who gives the notice says, in effect, "Here I come, proposing to do thus and so, which concerns you in the manner described."

This gives the persons thus warned due notice of the impending action. Thus they can give their assent if required or take countersteps if necessary. This is the essence of every Public Notice. The letter of the law is complied with when the notice is published, but the spirit is not met unless due notice is taken also.

JUNGLE—Green Hell of a Pacific Paradise

Islands' Tropical Growth Nearly as Mean to Fight as Japs, Yanks Find

By Lieut. (j.g.) Maurice A. Unger
United States Naval Reserve

The Marines that swept ashore under fire at Guadalcanal, Bougainville and the other islands of the Pacific cursed the hellish green jungles that lay before them. The mass of trees and brush hid the enemy by day and by night enabled them to creep up undetected to wield their knives and try their nerve wracking tricks.

From the comments of the men who made the landings it is easy to learn that fighting the jungle is almost as difficult as killing the Jap. With each foot of beachhead taken, nature's buttress has to be torn aside, each step forward is a step over an obstacle.

Vines trip the men, branches tear their clothing (that they sometimes have to live in for as long as 80 days), and what is far worse, rotten tree trunks hide the myriads of bugs that make life miserable and very often their bites lead to painful infections.

Fighting in the jungle is psychologically analogous to entering a dark room, armed with a walking stick, and in which there are a dozen snakes, one being of a poisonous species.

What, then, does the "bush" of a typical Pacific island paradise consist of? A botanist would have esthetic tremors, but it's just a plain in the neck to any fighting man.

Those Coconut Trees

Everyone knows that coconut trees are plentiful on the islands, but strangely enough, they do not make up much of the jungle. Most of these trees are planted row after row on plantations near the coral beaches. The nut was harvested, the copra dried, and the oil used in the manufacture of soap.

However, there are still enough of these tall, graceful trees growing wild to make up part of the jungle. Actually they are very beautiful, but not so when the Nip hides himself in the palms, making life uncomfortable by continually taking pot shots at all who pass by.

Mangrove trees growing near the water's edge are a part of the picture. The roots, looking like a writhing mass of snakes, take hold in a swamp of black, slimy mud that reeks strongly of decaying vegetable matter. Occasionally, startled crocodiles slide between their roots out into deeper waters, making a disconcerting aside to what lies ahead.

Once the ooze of the mangrove swamp is passed the attacking men gain what is laughingly called dry land. During the rainy season, it rains 200 inches a year on most of the islands, the ground is slick as ice and looks very much like the red clay of Georgia.

On this ground there is often the sago palm. The pith is fibrous and was once the staple of the native diet, but this was before the white man introduced corned beef and rice so that he'd have to work to eat. The long, wide leaves of the sago are used in the making of thatch for the quaint native huts.

In time, termites eat the thatch, but fortunately it is easily repaired. This tree grows close to the ground with the leaves spread fanlike, and hiding well anything that may be lurking behind them.

Nearby there may be a banana tree adding to the confusion or a slender papaya, "mummy" apple, as the natives call them, with its mushy fruit and seeds containing a great deal of pepsin, which is incidentally excellent for the digestion.

FIGHTING THROUGH—An Australian-manned American tank smashes its way through the Buna jungle.

There are nut trees called "nali" that are rich and heavy and too many of them will necessitate the use of mummy apple seeds.

The "saca" nut may be there, too, but this is not to be eaten. The natives make a type of glue out of them with which they waterproof their canoes and water inlaid decorations carved out of mother of pearl.

The nut of all nuts, however, is the betel nut tree. Betel nut is chewed with the leaf of the pepper tree and powdered lime made out of coral. On a cud of this one may reach his own particular Nirvana, but the teeth get black and the lips become covered with a sticky crimson paste. It burns the mouth, but you can get higher than the palms.

Bamboo Trees Everywhere

Bamboo trees grow in abundance without rhyme or reason, and there are several species of a hard, close-grained wood that is called false mahogany, that's because it looks like mahogany, but isn't.

Occasionally, there are bright spots of color, the flamboyant with small, round leaves and crimson blossoms, the hues of the hibiscus ranging from mauve to light pink, and the beautiful, delicate shades of the bougainvillea.

Men have sometimes tried for years, most of them unsuccessfully, to raise orchids that grow wild in the jungle. They are parasites that snuff out the lives of the trees they feed on, some of them have the soft colors that we see at home, but the great

OF HUMAN INTEREST At The War Front

By OLEN W. CLEMENTS
SOMEWHERE IN NEW GUINEA, March 6—(P)—Tales from the South Seas:

Some of the boys are still chuckling over the first air raid Sgt. Michael Ratkovich of Chicago underwent. Ratkovich, who weighs better than 300 pounds, had started a foxhole but did not have it finished when the alarm sounded. Somehow he managed to cram his big frame inside the small hole, but when the all clear sounded he couldn't get out. It took six men several minutes to pull him free.

NURSE LOST TOO

Almost the same thing happened to tiny Lieut. Winifred Diehl, an army nurse from Allentown, Penn. Miss Diehl, slightly less than five feet tall, jumped into a deep hole with other nurses. When the raid was over the other nurses clambered out, leaving tiny Miss Diehl in the hole, unable to scale the high wall. It was an hour later that her cries were heard and she was rescued.

TABLES ARE TURNED

Pvt. James P. Wright of Saginaw, Mich., (now a lieutenant) had two full colonels dig a foxhole for him north of the Owen Stanley Mountains.

Wright and several other enlisted men were decoding messages when a Jap air raid became imminent. The enlisted men had to continue their work and the only two men to dig foxholes were the colonels. They sweated over their shovels and finished the foxhole in time for the G. I.'s to jump in as Jap bombers came over.

PRACTICAL LOVER

He's a bit sloppy in dress, this G. I. cook "Bull Baker." His pants always bag at the seat and his overseas cap always is askew. But beneath his khaki shirt there beats a heart that is full of romance—or was.

He's a private in a Signal Corps company and he hails from Minnesota. He gets his nickname from the dish he serves most often, bully-beef. "Bull Baker" believes in practical gifts to the fair sex. So when the Southern Cross cast its romantic spell on his tortured soul, he bought his Australian girl friend a gift—a brand new set of false teeth. (Many South Sea girls have false teeth because of the lack of calcium in their diet.)

The romance progressed. Then one day "Bull Baker" saw her out with another G. I.

He reclaimed the dentures and put the set on a box beside his cot. There they are yet.

A BOMBER BASE IN ENGLAND, March 6—(P)—A two-mile fall in a disintegrating plane before bombardier Lt. Richard (Dick) Nardi could detach his parachute from a cable and float 1,000 feet to the ground was recounted today by the former Ohio State and professional football player.

Lieutenant Nardi, whose home is in Cleveland, O., said no one ever would know what caused an explosion in his Liberator bomber as it was enroute to attack a Dutch airfield recently.

"A huge flash of fire hit me in the face and I dived for the door in the nose compartment," Nardi said. "Halfway out, my parachute caught on the cable and I hung there head down."

"I saw the wings and other parts of the ship fall off as she dived probably 600 miles an hour. Somehow I got straight enough to pull myself back and clear myself of the cable. It looked like only the nose of the ship was left then. I had about 1,000 feet of altitude when I jumped."

"Lucky! There must have been two angels floating down on my shoulders. It scares hell out of me just to think about it now."

A U. S. BOMBER BASE IN BRITAIN, March 6—(P)—The Flying Fortress "London Avenger," furnished by war bonds bought by citizens of Bermondsey, London's most bombed borough, came back from gouthwest Germany yesterday after one of the day's closest calls.

Two of the planes motor's quit even before reaching the target. It was with a group led by Lt. Col. Robert S. Tittel of Colorado Springs, Colo., and Maj. Joseph Theis of Louisville, Stark County, Ohio.

Bombs were dropped on the target and the entire crew got back to its home base without a scratch in time for a late dinner.

"ASHELL SMASHED MY TYPEWRITER!"

Associated Press reporter Robert Eunson was 35 yards from the Arave beach when the Japanese opened up just before dawn on the American Sixth Army invading New Britain.

Bullets riddled his boat and he scrambled out. Men were falling dead all around him. He tried to get his feet on the bottom but it was too deep. He dived under a barge to escape the murderous criss-cross of machine gun fire and nearly drowned. He came up and a shell smashed his typewriter.

Finally, his feet hit the coral and he made shore where he wrote one of the most graphic stories to come out of this war as the shelling continued.

AP men like Eunson are risking their lives to cover every phase of the growing Pacific offensive . . . the veteran C. Yates McDaniel, Murlin Spencer, William F. Boni, Asahel Bush and Dean Schedler, who were also at New Britain; William Hipple and William Worden who narrowly missed death at Tarawa; Rembert James, who like Boni, wears the Purple Heart for his wounds in the South Pacific, to name only a few.

Soldiers—without guns—these men are providing American readers with the greatest coverage of a war ever known!

Stark Tragedy

We granted the enemy a quick and thoroughly complete victory of major importance in February when a two-and-a-half-million-dollar concern engaged in building engines for Liberty ships was demolished by fire on the West Coast. Twenty-four engines in various stages of completion were also destroyed. All of this did not cost the Axis a single bomb or plane. While the cause of this particular disaster is not known definitely, an overheated steam pipe was suggested. It is known, however, that the majority of such fires are preventable. A moment of carelessness in a vital war plant today can do the work of countless bombers. Day after day we read of the historic flights of American planes that fly hundreds of miles in broad daylight over enemy territory, through hour after hour of relentless attack from above and below. Their objectives are often war plants. If they can destroy an important plant and get home again with a loss of a few hundred men and twenty to forty planes, their mission is considered justified. After a few flights like this, men are retired to easier jobs—if they live that long.

How must they feel, these fighters, when they read about our war plants being destroyed regularly, with the flip of a lethal cigaret, a neglected pile of waste, overheated smoke or steam pipes, etc., etc.? One worker, in a moment of carelessness, can accomplish for the Axis the same result that our flyers die by the hundreds to accomplish.

This is not irony. It is stark tragedy due to carelessness on the home front.

Monarchs on Skids

All signs point to a further reduction in the number of European monarchies as soon as the war is over. Franco in Spain—if he is still in power—will hardly attempt to restore the old royal line there. That might please Britain, but it would be opposed by Stalin.

The king of Italy is out. What form the future Italian government will assume is not clear, but Emmanuel will not be part of it. Nor are the prospects of the Hapsburgs in Austria bright. Albania will not likely draw a king, and Greece may take the republican course.

It is unlikely that Russia will approve monarchies in Bulgaria and Rumania. Hungary and Czechoslovakia will be republics. Yugoslavia may make the same choice.

This will leave the monarchical bulwark in Europe held by England, Belgium, Holland, Denmark, Norway and Sweden. In Africa, Egypt will still have its khedive and Ethiopia its Emperor Haile Selassie, the Lion of Judah. But over in Asia Minor a president will continue to head the Turkish state.

World War I put many a monarch on the skids. It is clear that the record of that conflict will be overshadowed by the manner in which this struggle is pointing

Today's Horoscope

With your temperament, don't marry hastily if this is your birthday. An uncongenial mate would make your married life very unhappy. You have a strong will, are self-reliant and inclined to analyze everything. You are fond of sports and excitement; enjoy having many people around you and like making new acquaintances. During the next year elders in influential positions will aid you financially. New and novel businesses promise success, but avert disagreements with employers. Safeguard your health. Born on this date a child will exhibit much natural dignity and desire to help others, but overstrain will need to be guarded against.

Patient China

Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, with a vision that takes in the whole Far Eastern problem, declares that Japan cannot be defeated by sea power alone, but must be fought from bases in China.

So "ancient and honorable China," after difficulties, delays and privations that would have worn out any other nation long ago, "Gets a break." The brave little Chinese-American air force will be strengthened. Adequate supplies will be got into China somehow. The poorly armed Chinese troops will be equipped and decently fed. China will become an effective belligerent, and eventually there will be for the Chinese as much might as right.

China has been patient indeed, shut in as she has been by land and sea, her people fighting and dying in almost countless numbers for her own freedom and the common cause. Even yet she must wait. But now there is real hope. Uncle Sam, forced to help China by helping himself against the Japs next door, will usher in a new era for a nation to whom America owes more than it can ever repay. Without China defending herself against the Japanese with her bare hands, eastern Asia would have been lost long ago.

Allergy Causes Many Symptoms

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

HYPERSENSITIVITY, or allergy, is a cause of a large number of symptom-complexes, more or less annoying, from asthma and hay fever to itchiness and dermatitis.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

titis. Seldom sufficient to lay a person low or be dangerous, they still account for several million examples of acute discomfort in the world.

Two kinds may be distinguished—general and local. In one, the offending substance gets in the blood and produces widespread manifestations in sensitive organs—examples are hives, asthma and digestive upsets. The other comes in contact with surface cells and these respond with signs of irritation: examples are hay fever and contact-dermatitis.

Cause Unsuspected
One reason the skin irritation of contact dermatitis goes on so long is that the object which causes it is so familiar that it is never suspected or implicated.

A hint as to the cause of one of these cases of dermatitis can be gained by considering the place where the skin eruption occurs.

A Detroit physician, Dr. George L. Waldbott, sent out a questionnaire to a number of dermatologists asking them to indicate on a chart the commonest causes, in their experience, of eruptions on different parts of the body. The results were:

Forehead: Hatband, hair net, bathing cap.

Nose: Spectacle frame.

Ears: Earrings, ear phone.

Face: Cosmetics, shaving soaps, creams, lotions, bed clothes (pillow slips, blankets).

Neck: Starch in collar, scarves, jewelry.

Shoulder: Suspenders, slips, dry cleaning fluid, nail polish (from touching fingers to neck).

Armpits: Depilatory, deodorant, dry cleaning fluid, dress shield.

Over Chest: Brassiere, match box in vest pocket.

Middle of Back: Zipper.

Hands: Gloves, liquid soap dispenser, ring, powder, matches, handling flowers (primroses lead).

Waist: Truss, shorts, sanitary belt, girdle, diaper, rubber pad, toilet seat, bathing trunks.

Legs: Matches in trouser pockets, dry cleaning fluid, garters, garter clasps, socks, oil on trousers of workers, theatre seat (on back of foreleg), depilatory, galoshes (fur lining especially), arm chair.

Peculiarities of Reactions
Local reactions of this kind have some peculiarities which are the result of the cell reactions, and which we do not understand entirely. The local skin cells may not react when first brought into contact with the offending substance, but then gradually and slowly develop sensitiveness which gets worse with every contact.

For example, a man may use the same shaving preparation—cream or soap—for years and have no reaction from it, and then suddenly his face becomes sensitive and begins to itch after every shave. Changing to another kind of preparation clears him up entirely.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

M. J. J.—Could spinal meningitis in infancy cause a mental derangement in later years, say at the time of the menopause?

Answer: The mental deficiency of spinal meningitis follows immediately on the attack, with no interval between. The menopause has its own mental troubles.

L. E. F.—Are carbonated drinks, such as Coca-Cola, Pepsi-Cola, etc., harmful taken once a week?

Answer: They are not harmful taken much oftener than that. They furnish quick energy and vigor through their sugar and coca contents.

X. Y. Z.—What is dementia praecox? How long does it last? Is it inherited? Is there any cure?

Answer: Dementia praecox is a mental deterioration that afflicts young people. The cause is not clear in all cases, but it is not hereditary. It may last a long time. The so-called shock treatment is valuable in certain cases.

A Model is Murdered ~ BABS LEE

CHAPTER FIFTEEN

Argus grinned. He paused for a brief instant in front of Cynthia Lane's dressing room. Then he shrugged and sauntered toward the bathroom. He edged his way through a group of women and spoke to the captain. The latter bowed and led Argus to his table near the runway. "Can one get any liquid refreshments at this little affair?" Argus asked.

"Certainly, sir. But there will be a charge, sir." "Bring me a double Scotch," Argus said. Then added: "Wait a second." He had caught sight of a blonde girl sitting alone at a table directly opposite. It was Dorry. "On second thought," Argus said, "bring my drink to Table 19."

"Yes, sir." Argus got up and crossed to where Dorry was sitting. "Hello," he said. "Mind if I sit down?" "Why, Mr. Steele? What are you doing here?" Dorry asked, smiling at him. "Do sit down." Her appearance had changed materially since the night before. She was wearing hardly any make-up and her gold hair was combed into a smooth bob under a smart black hat. There were dark rings under her eyes, as though she hadn't slept well, and she was very pale.

"Will you have a drink?" Argus suggested.

"No, no, thanks. I'm meeting some friends in a little while and we're going to have tea."

"Is Bill with you?" Argus asked, sliding his long legs under the table.

"No," Argus thought she looked troubled. Dorry's eyes avoided his. "You know," said Argus, "I never did know your last name."

Dorry hesitated a second. "I'm Bill's wife," she announced.

"Oh!" Argus pursed his lips and regarded her reflectively. "When did that happen?"

"About a week ago. We've been lucky. Only a few people know. We didn't want a lot of reporters around and all."

"Bill's father know?" "Yes. He wanted us to get married."

"Thought maybe marriage'd straighten Bill out, eh?" Argus asked. Dorry nodded.

"Well," commented Argus, "that should be a life's work."

"I don't mind," said Dorry. "I know Bill's been a little wild, but he's a good kid really. He's just had too much money and his father's been too busy to look after him. His mother died when Bill was very young." The waiter brought Argus' drink.

"Sure you won't change your mind?" Argus asked. Dorry shook her head. "How's this marriage working out?"

"He was getting better, until—" Dorry broke off hastily.

"Until he got mixed up with Sylvia Verne?" Argus queried. "By the way, do you have a license to carry a gun?" Dorry looked paler than ever.

"What do you mean?" "Last night," said the detective, "you had a gun. Ellen Curtis saw it when it fell out of your bag." "Oh, that . . ." faltered Dorry, endeavoring to appear unconcerned. "What were you doing with it?" "Mr. Steele, will you tell me just why I should answer that?" "I just think it might be a good idea," said Argus. She looked at him warily for several seconds.

"Very well, I'll tell you. I bought that gun. I thought maybe Bill might get into trouble. He has a temper when he's drinking and—"

"Where is the gun now?" Argus asked.

"I threw it away." "Where?" "In a trash can on Third Avenue. I don't remember what street."

"Why?" Argus pressed. "Did you think you wouldn't need it any more?"

"Yes, yes, that was it," Dorry replied. She was breathing faster.

"Where did you go after you left the Penguin Club last night?" "I don't remember exactly. I know I got home—Bill took me home," she ended abruptly. "I don't know why you should be asking—"

"To get back to that gun you threw away—where did you buy it?"

"Why—from—from—" "Careful. You know I can check on it," Argus warned. "You found that gun in your husband's possession, didn't you? And you were worried, because he drank so much, that he might accidentally shoot some one, weren't you?"

Dorry hung her head. "No," she said.

"Where are you and Bill living?" Argus went on. "With his father?"

"No. We have our own apartment."

"Why were you wearing all that war paint last night? You look much better au naturel."

"I was trying to be a glamour girl, I guess," Dorry said wistfully. "I'm sort of colorless and—"

"How did you meet Bill?" "I was studying dancing. I met Bill about three months ago. Her whole face brightened as she mentioned his name.

"Bill was phoning Sylvia Verne last night, wasn't he?" Argus asked. He looked down at his drink. Dorry didn't reply. He looked up at her questioning. She was staring at the entrance to the bathroom.

"My friends are coming," she said. Argus saw two middle-aged women approaching. "They used to teach me piano, in Ohio," Dorry explained.

"Well, I guess I'll be leaving," said Argus rising. "See you later, Dorry. You may be able to help me. S'long." He returned to his own table.

Argus looked around the room. It was packed. Blue smoke floated ceilingward like a cloud of gossip. A group of men were sitting together facing the stage at the end of the runway. Argus recognized both Sturgis and Flagg. He wondered why the show didn't begin. Presently the lights dimmed. The orchestra struck up a soft dance tune. There was a lull in the noise. A hush fell over the gathering. A baby spot was centered on the stage. A youngish woman, smartly tailored, stepped from behind the curtains. She walked up to the microphone. There was a faint ripple of applause. The woman bowed and then held up her hand for silence.

"This afternoon," she began in a pleasant voice, "we take great pleasure in presenting to you the latest creations from our leading American couturiers. The gentlemen at the end of the runway," another spot turned on them, "are among the foremost artists and illustrators." There was polite applause. "These gentlemen will be our judges this afternoon in selecting the most attractive ensemble in each of four types of clothes. At the end of the show, Mr. Roger Flagg, one of New York's famous model-agents, will tell you why each costume was selected as being the best, in the opinion of the judges. And now—on with the show!" A large spotlight was trained directly on the stage.

The curtains parted to show a tableau of four girls in bathing suits bouncing a huge rubber ball back and forth against a setting of palm trees and Florida scenery. Ellen was in the group. She was wearing an abbreviated blue beach costume.

One by one the girls left the stage and marched down the runway. They paused in front of the judges and pirouetted so as to present every aspect of their costumes. As Ellen passed, Argus winked. Ellen certainly had her own with any of the models in the dressing room, Argus decided, when it came to pert and saucy figures. She moved on. Another model took her place. She was a voluptuous brunette wearing a one-piece suit of red sequins that fit her contours better than the proverbial glove.

After the bathing-suit parade came the spring prints and street clothes. Argus' interest abated somewhat. He looked down at his drink and when he raised his eyes again, he was staring into Cynthia Lane's face. She looked scared. She was standing just over him on the runway and as she turned she tossed a crumpled ball of paper on his table. Then she moved away.

Quickly Argus opened the folded wad. A message was scrawled on it in pencil:

Come to my dressing room, 301, during intermission. Don't let any one know. Urgent.

Cynthia Lane

The curtain came down. Argus applauded with the other. Then he sauntered casually from the ballroom. He encountered Ellen on the way to Cynthia's dressing room.

Understand Your Federal Income Tax

WHEN, WHERE, AND HOW TAXES ARE TO BE PAID

Taxpayers who file annual federal income and victory tax returns for 1943 on or before March 15, 1944, will show in that return the settlement of the taxes for both the years 1942 and 1943 under the plan provided in the law for the transition to the pay-as-you-go or current tax payment system.

After computing the tax on 1943 income, they will compare that tax with the 1942 tax. They will then enter on the return in general, the greater tax plus an addition of one-fourth of the lesser tax as the total amount due, the balance of the lesser tax being forgiven. A substantial part if not all of the tax will already have been paid by most taxpayers, since they may take credit for all of the payments made on their 1942 income tax returns, together with the additional amounts paid (a) through the collection of income taxes at the source by withholding from wages in 1943, or (b) through payments of estimated tax in September and December, 1943, or (c) through a combination of both methods of payment. If, after taking these credits, a taxpayer owes a balance, he may postpone for one year (without interest) any amount of the unpaid balance up to one-half of the unforfeited portion of the lesser year's tax. The remainder of the unpaid balance, if any, will be due not later than March 15, 1944, while taxpayers who have paid more than the total amount due will be eligible for a refund or credit.

Special rules apply to members of the armed forces, both in determining whether or not the 1942 tax is greater than the 1943 tax, and in determining the time when payment of the final balance due shall be made when they have been outside of this country, as explained in previous articles in this series.

Payments of income taxes must be made to the office of the collector of internal revenue where the return is required to be filed—that is, to the collector for the district in which is located the taxpayer's legal residence or principal place of business. If he has no legal residence or principal place of business in the United States, payment should be made to the collector at Baltimore, Md.

Payments of tax may be made in cash, or by check or money order payable to "Collector of Internal Revenue." If payment is made in cash, the taxpayer should request and the collector should furnish a receipt. If, however, payment is made by check or money order, the canceled check or the money order receipt is usually a sufficient receipt.

In the payment of taxes, a fractional part of a cent is to be disregarded unless it amounts to one-half cent or more, in which case it shall be increased to 1 cent.

Margaret Mae Ashley and Lt. Charles Martin McCoy Exchange Single Ring Vows

Impressive Open Church Wedding at Grace Methodist Church Saturday Unites Well-known Couple

Grace Methodist Church was the scene of an impressive wedding Saturday afternoon at four o'clock, when Miss Margaret Mae Ashley, daughter of Mrs. Chloe C. Ashley of East Market Street became the bride of Lt. Charles Martin McCoy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter E. McCoy, of near this city.

The single ring vows were read by Rev. George B. Parkin, pastor of the church, before the altar, which was decorated with baskets of white carnations and snapdragons, and four 7-branch candelabras. Circling the altar was a number of white tapers whose soft light shed a gracious glow over the bridal party as the vows were exchanged.

A program of appropriate nuptial music preceded the marriage with Miss Marian Christopher at the organ and Miss Laura Schadel, contralto vocalist.

The selections rendered by Miss Christopher were "Oh Promise Me," "Liebestraum," and "My Heart At Thy Sweet Voice," from Sampson and Delilah. Miss Schadel, talented young vocalist, sang "Toujours L'Amour," "I Love You Truly," and "Through the Years," accompanied by Miss Christopher at the organ.

The bride descended the aisle of the church to the strains of the "Wedding March" from Lohengrin on the arm of her brother, Lt. Franklyn Ashley, who gave her in marriage. Preceding them were the two bridesmaids, Miss Marilyn McCoy and Miss Joan Wilson, wearing identical floor-length gowns of silk taffeta, fashioned with a sweetheart neckline, long torso bodice, and bracelet length sleeves. They were wearing a single strand of pearls, gift of the bride. Shoulder length veils of illusion were held in place with tiny clusters of pastel shaded spring flowers, and they carried sweetheart bouquets of roses, sweetpeas, daffodils, iris and other pastel-shaded spring flowers.

Next came the junior maid of honor, Miss Marilyn Ashley, and the maid of honor, Miss Grace Fellenzer, who wore floor-length light blue, silk taffeta gowns, fashioned identically to those of the bridesmaids. They were carrying sweetheart bouquets of roses, sweetpeas, daffodils, iris and other pastel-shaded spring flowers, and their veils of illusion were held in place with clusters of daintily colored flowers. A single strand of pearls was the gift of the bride.

The attractive bride wore for her marriage, a gown of ivory brocade satin, fashioned with a long torso bodice and long fitted sleeves that ended in a point on her hands, and the long waistline was festooned with four bows of the same material as the dress. Her veil was held in place with a tiara of seed pearls and imported handmade flowers of lace and pearls. She carried a white prayer book with satin streamers to which a single orchid was attached.

Performing the duties of best man was Lt. Charles Martin of Middletown, Ohio.

For her daughter's marriage, Mrs. Ashley wore a wood violet street length frock with matching accessories. Her flowers were a shoulder corsage of gardenias. The bridegroom's mother was wearing a street length brown frock with a light blue yoke and matching accessories. Her flowers were also a shoulder corsage of gardenias.

At the close of the impressive ceremony, Lt. Franklyn Ashley, brother of the bride, rose from his place beside his mother and accompanied by Miss Christopher at the organ, sang very beautifully, the lovely setting "The Lord's Prayer." It was a fitting and dignified part of the service which the minister closed with the nuptial benediction.

As the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march filled the church, the bride and bridegroom and other members of the bridal party formed a receiving line. Here they received the best wishes and felicitations of the many friends and relatives who had gathered at the impressive ceremony which united two prominent Fayette County families.

Immediately following the marriage, a reception for members of the immediate families and out-of-town guests was entertained by Mrs. Ashley in the church parlors. Here the traditional ceremony of cutting the two-tiered wedding cake, which was topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom, was prettily performed by the personable young bride.

Presiding at the beautifully appointed serving table which was centered with the wedding cake and flanked with tall white burning tapers, was Mrs. Arch O. Ribber, Mrs. Mable Blessing, Mrs. Forrest Anders and Mrs. Willard F. Wilson. Here was served a delectable array of tea dainties. A congenial hour of visiting was enjoyed with the newly-weds after which they left on a short wedding trip.

For going-away the bride wore a pastel green costume suit with which she combined brown accessories. Her flowers were a corsage of gardenias.

Among those attending from out-of-town were Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Dodds of Bainbridge, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Anderson and daughter, Linda, and Mrs. Ralph Cline, all of Columbus, Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Limes of Greenfield, Mrs. James C. White and Mrs. M. J. White, both of Williamsburg, Mrs. R. S. Welsh, Miss Emily Jewell and Barbara Amdeint, all of Ohio Wesleyan University, Delaware and Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Hill, of Hillsboro, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Renick, Miss Dell Renick, Mr. Harford Renick, all of Circleville, Mr. and Mrs. John Rife Alkire, Miss Betty Alkire and Miss Marietta Alkire, and Mrs. Fred Young, all of Mt. Sterling.

The newly-weds are to report to the Western Army Air Field, Springfield, Mass., on March seventeenth and the bride will accompany her husband to make their new home there.

Pacific Hero Is Married Feb. 22 To Ironton Girl

Saint Rose of Lima Church, Chula Vista, Calif., was the scene of the February 22 wedding of Miss Marianne Williams, daughter of Frank Williams of Logan, W. Va., and Cpl. Daniel A. Delaney of the U. S. Marine Corps, son of Mrs. Mary Delaney of Ironton. The Rev. Father Brown officiated.

Cpl. Delaney was graduated from St. Joseph High School and attended St. Joseph College at Rensselaer, Ind.

He has received the Purple Heart for meritorious action and wounds received in the battle of Guadalcanal and a ribbon for duty in the Pacific. He is at present drill instructor for the U. S. Marine Base, at San Diego, Calif. Cpl. Delaney is the nephew of Mr. Fred Dennison of this city.

FEATURE NO. 1.—The son of a hard-headed banking family has finally convinced his practical relatives that there's money in acting.

He is Tom Neal, currently co-starring with Jeanne Bates in "The Racket Man" at the State Theater Wednesday. This is Tom's fourth straight starring role in a row. It has taken him only two short years to scale the cinematic ladder from bit player to star. As second feature the hilarious results of a secret marriage are said to be revealed with extraordinary effect in Universal's "Fired Wife" which is scheduled to open Wednesday at the State Theater. The new comedy-drama, starring Robert Paige and Louise Allbritton, is announced as one of the most mirthful and entertaining pictures in the current array of fun-films. Diana Barrymore and Walter Abel have leading featured roles.

Cemetery Board Elects Sexton

Sabina Cemetery Board has employed Harold Tibbals as sexton of the cemetery for the coming year.

The retiring sexton, James Lynch with his family moved Wednesday to their newly purchased home on West Elm Street.

Reverend Wright Recovering

Rev. B. E. Wright, former Sabina Pastor who has been ill in Jewish Hospital, Cincinnati, has sufficiently recovered to be removed to his home at Marshall.

Leap Year Party

Dr. and Mrs. E. J. Meacham entertained a group of young people in their home on Tuesday evening, February 29. About half the number were high school young people of the local Church of Christ and the others were from the Church of Christ Bible School in Hillsboro, Dr. Paul Jones, Pastor.

Music, contests, games and "cheerful chatter" occupied the evening hours.

Mrs. Meacham was assisted in serving refreshments by Mesdames Guy Fenner, Charles Glass, Dana Sparks.

Those attending from Hillsboro were: Kenneth Humphries, Margene Gustin, Peggy Medsher, Charles Strood, Lois E. Harshbarger, Owen Starling Roush, Dorothy Temple, Maxine Zink, Eleanor Harshbarger, John Ridgway, Georgia McConaughy, Patti Poulerson, David Yeager I, Paul Jones, Betty Dickerson, David Yeager II, Betty Jean Walker.

Present from Sabina were: Robert J. Goodman, Dwight H. Sparks, Elmore V. Newman, Charlotte Sheley, Russell Goodson, Joe Saville, Mary Lou Van Pelt, Ella Mae Ray Marcella both boys good luck in their work in the armed forces.

Guests present were from Circleville, Frankfort, Dayton, Columbus, Marion, New Holland and this city.

A delicious potluck luncheon was served to many friends and relatives of the popular boys, and all took this opportunity to visit until a late hour.

The afternoon was interspersed with games, both entertaining and hilarious, and the guests departed late in the evening after wishing Cline, Warren Stauffer, Janet Fenner, Gerald Yarger, Virginia Van Pelt, Joann Sparks, Don Frisby, Terry Moore, Ivan Gal-laher, and Betty Bennett.

Mrs. O. D. Young Hostess

Mr. and Mrs. O. D. Young entertained with a lovely dinner party honoring the birthday anniversary of Mrs. George Mannisel Thursday evening.

The dining table was beautiful with a candelabra of blue and gold candlesticks and centered with a huge birthday cake, the gift of Mrs. Alan McVey. Guests were the host and hostess and the honored guest were Mr. Mannisel, Mrs. H. L. Littleton, Mayor and Mrs. Alan McVey and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Sessler.

Mrs. Mannisel graciously expressed her appreciation for the many useful gifts she received on the pleasurable evening.

Removals

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Smith will move this week to the Mulvihill, property on South Howard Street, vacated by Mr. and Mrs. Milburn Gire and sons.

Mr. and Mrs. Roger Waddell moved last week to the farm home vacated by Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Case, and which was recently purchased by Mr. and Mrs. William Waddell.

Stop! Don't throw away ammunition!

DON'T scrape those precious scraps of fat into the garbage pail! They can save the lives of our fighting men! Every drop of that congealed grease on plates and platters, all those bits of trimmed-off fat are urgently needed for ammunition and medicines.

Too little to bother with? One tablespoon alone makes 5 machine-gun bullets! Or enough sulfadiazine ointment to treat 35 wounded men!

—Spying— On Sports

By Hugh Fullerton, Jr.

NEW YORK, March 6.—(AP)—Remember way back when baseball fans used to get steamed up because a few prominent players hadn't signed their contracts by this time of the year? Well, there's still a week or ten days before 1944 spring training starts and a lot more players are unsigned than signed. . . . Not many are hollering for more dough, but you'll notice that it's guys like Spud Chandler, Joe Gordon, Billy Herman, Stan Spence, Ray Mack, Doc Carter and Dick Bartell who are either talking about sticking to their war jobs or aren't saying anything. . . . Washington has 34 players signed, the other clubs only 12 or 15 apiece. . . . The club owners, of course, claim it's just a sign that a lot of the boys are uncertain about their draft status and that they'll bring them papers when they report, but still it starts you wondering.

Slight Case of Confusion
Just as a sample of what the major league magnates are up against in their efforts to line up their 1944 squads, a Newark, N. J., paper yesterday ran a story quoting Eddie Mayo as saying that he had given up baseball "at least for the duration." . . . Two columns away on the page appeared a wire story listing eleven players who had signed Detroit contracts for 1944. . . . one of them was Eddie Mayo.

BUCKS TOP BIG TEN

CHICAGO, March 6.—(AP)—Now that it's all settled, with Ohio State the undisputed Big Ten basketball champion, Iowa's Hawkeyes can contemplate the irony of their unhappy fate.

In a season in which they set a new conference game record of 103 points and carried off individual scoring honors with Dick Ives' winning total of 208 points, the Hawks lost a share of the title by a one-point defeat Saturday by an under-dog Northwestern five as the season ended. The score was 42-41.

Early favorites for the crown, but hit hard in recent weeks by loss of Capt. Otto Graham and other regulars through Navy transfers, the Wildcats had succumbed to Iowa Friday, 45-39.

Little Chivalry In Stone Crushers

The Brawny Stone Crushers from Melvin shut their eyes to chivalry Sunday and smacked the ducks on the Main Street alleys for a clean sweep of a little special bowling match with the Record-Herald Newgirls and took the honors, 2207 to 1828, in total pins.

The scores were not too high but the competition was keener than the score might indicate.

The Newgirls occupy the same next-to-last position in the Women's City League as the Stone Crushers do to the Men's League.

Old Foes Of Blue Lions Eliminated From State Cage Tournaments

With Fayette County's representative basketball teams eliminated from district tournaments in the first round of play, fans here today could turn their attention to the teams that had conquered them and their opponents during the regular season.

The Blue Lions of WHS, who were knocked out of the central district tournament at Delaware Friday night by Linden-McKinley of Columbus, and the Jeffersonville High School cagers, who were beaten by Lynchburg, 33 to 21, at Waverly Friday, have put away their shorts for the season.

By a strange quirk of fate, Hillsboro's Indians, twice beaten by the Blue Lions, outlasted Greenfield's Tigers, who handed the Lions a pair of sound drubbings during the SCO season, in the tourney at Portsmouth, Sciotoville (Portsmouth East) put the Greenfielders out in the first round, 39 to 29, while the Hillsboro boys nosed out the Ironton cagers, 19 to 17, in their first game. However, the Sciotoville outfit eliminated the Hillsboro crew, 30 to 21, when they met. The Indians, like the Lions, went into the season suffering from inexperience but showed improvement as they went through the schedule.

Favorites Remain
The field of contenders for the state championships dwindled sharply last week but most of the top favorites moved serenely along in sectional and district tournaments.

The principal casualties were in the Class B tournaments.

Covington, unbeaten in regular season play, was knocked off by Tipp City and the Tipp City boys came right back to lick Enon, another highly regarded quintet.

In the Class A tournaments such unbeaten teams as Newark's defending champions, Martins Ferry, Findlay and Cincinnati Xavier took forward steps.

After barely getting by Marion Harding in its first tournament game, Newark recovered its form and breezed past Mount Vernon, 56 to 24, and Linden-McKinley of Columbus, 46 to 24.

High scoring Martins Ferry also had an easy time, drubbing Bridgeport, 56 to 28.

Findlay had considerable more trouble but managed to stay alive with a 39 to 37 conquest of Kenton. Cincinnati Xavier won easily from Walnut Hills, 47 to 16.

Canton McKinley, which didn't lose a game until the final two contests of its regular schedule, got back into the winning groove by drubbing Canton Lincoln, 52 to 27.

One of the hottest of the Class B teams—Ashville—continued to sport a perfect record by thumping Plain City, 41 to 32. Akron Ellet, another B team with designs on the state title, clinched its place in this week's district competition.

Saturday's scoring honors went to Marietta and Tiltonsville. Marietta rolled up an 84 to 33 count on New Lexington and Tiltonsville did almost as well in walloping Shadyside, 75 to 30.

There also was a liberal sprinkling of flashbacks to the old defensive type of basketball. Hillsboro and Ironton collected only 36 points between them with Hillsboro winning, 19 to 17. The B tournament at Cincinnati had two of those games, St. Bernard defeating Deer Park, 24 to 17, and Fairfield squeezing past Green Hills, 20 to 19.

Tourney Won By McSpaden

GULFPORT, Miss., March 6.—(AP)—Harold "Jug" McSpaden, par-cracking Philadelphia Country Club pro, got back into the winning groove to take first money in the $4500 Gulfport, Miss., Open Golf Tournament.

McSpaden shot a three-under-par 68 in the final round yesterday to bring his 72-hole total to 276, six strokes better than his nearest rival, Sammy Byrd of Birmingham.

McSpaden's victory was good for $1,000 in War Bonds with a maturity value of $1,333.33 while Byrd's second place 282 won him $750.

One stroke back of Byrd was Byron Nelson, Toledo, Ohio, veteran, who carded a 283 for the four rounds and won $550 in bonds. Tony Penna, Dayton, Ohio, pro, was fourth with 284.

GRAIN MARKET NEWS SUMMARY

CHICAGO, March 6.—(AP)—A weak undertone developed in grains today and prices drifted lower in a quiet trade. Largest loss was experienced by rye, which was down about a cent at times. Commission houses were not active in the market and most of the activity was provided by local traders.

Additional rain and snow over parts of the grain belt caused some of the selling in all pits. There was nothing in the general run of news to create an important price move in either direction. Grain men said the market apparently was awaiting some new incentive before any pick-up in volume could be expected.

At the close wheat was 3/4-1/2 lower than last Saturday's finish, May $1.70 1/2, oats were off 3/4-1/2, May 80 1/2, and rye was 1-1/2 lower, May $1.27 1/2. May barley closed at $1.22 1/2.

28 CLERGYMEN PROTEST OBLITERATION BOMBINGS

NEW YORK, March 6.—(AP)—An appeal protesting "obliteration" bombings of German cities has been issued by 28 clergymen and other leaders who call upon Christians "to examine themselves concerning their participation in this carnival of death."

The appeal, announced by John Nevin Sayre, co-secretary of the American fellowship of reconciliation, is contained in a foreword to "massacre by bombing," an article on bombing methods used against Germany written by Vera Brittain, British author.

ENGLISH MINERS STRIKE TOO OVER WAGE DISPUTE

LONDON, March 6.—(AP)—Twelve thousand Monmouthshire coal miners struck today over a wage dispute, adding another grave threat to fuel production already said to have been affected seriously by an unofficial "slow-down strike" by thousands of other pit men.

The slowdown began several months ago as a protest against a decision boosting the minimum weekly wage from $16.75 to $20 but providing no increase in piece rates.

ARGENTINA SUSPENDS UNITED PRESS CIRCUIT

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, March 6.—(AP)—The Argentine postmaster general in an order of March 4 has shut down for an indefinite period the United Press teletype circuit between Buenos Aires and Montevideo and ordered its affiliate, La Prensa Unida, to suspend all radio communication facilities for the transmission of news throughout Argentina.

DAY'S ACTIVITIES IN WALL STREET

NEW YORK, March 6.—(AP)—Ralls and specialties today led the stock market on a modest recovery swing. Prices began to stiffen after a slightly mixed opening. While dealings were relatively quiet, gains of fractions to 2 points predominated near the fourth hour. Low-priced utilities turned over in sizable blocks without getting anywhere.

The bright earnings picture again provided principal buying ammunition. Many customers kept commitments light pending international developments and more information regarding possible liquidation for March 15 income tax funds.

Women's Bowling Led by Toledoan

COLUMBUS, March 5.—(AP)—A Toledoan drew major attention in the third week end of keeling in the Ohio Women's Bowling tournament here.

She is Sophia Drew who rolled into first place in the Class A singles with 578, too over top spot in the All-Events with 1664 and teamed with Edith Miller, also of Toledo, to pace the doubles with a total of 1068. Their scores in the doubles were 561 and 507, respectively.

Buchtel Recreation of Akron took over the lead of Class B teams on a tally of 2274.

Marge Foster and Anne Edwards of Exello, near Middletown, shared first in the Class B doubles with 1002.

INCREASE DUE DAIRY SUBSIDY PAYMENTS HERE

Rates Are Upped for March, April, Reduction in Sight for Summer

The War Food Administration's announcement of increased subsidy rates for dairymen during March and April comes on the heels of a communication to the AAA office here to halt payment of February payments until continuation of the subsidies was decided.

In January, $1,250 in subsidy payments was distributed among Fayette County dairymen, Harry Silcott, head of the AAA office here, said today. The March and April increases are 50 cents per hundred pounds for milk and eight cents a pound for butterfat. Prices in January were 35 cents and five cents, Silcott said.

The new rates are designed to prevent an increase in consumer prices by compensating dairymen for increases in production costs. The increases are effective in Ohio, Indiana, Kentucky and Michigan.

However, with the newly authorized increases for March and April all set up, the AAA here still doesn't know just what to do about February. The letter, which asked them to hold up subsidy payments for that month, stated more information would be sent—but the go-ahead sign has not been nailed up yet, although continuation of subsidies has been authorized.

The War Food Administration added the increased rates would probably be reduced from May through August. The early summer months are usually the heaviest for milk production, for cows can be turned out to pasture. Since pasture is available during the summer, feed costs are cut and with that anticipated reduction, the subsidy payments will shrink. One of the primary reasons for the subsidy was to offset increasing feed costs and at the same time to keep down prices to the consumer.

ASA J. LARKIN IS CALLED BY DEATH

Dies in Columbus Hospital Sunday Afternoon

Asa J. Larkin, 70, died at Mt. Carmel Hospital in Columbus late Saturday. He had spent most of his life farming in Fayette County and had moved to Washington C. H. about six months ago.

He is survived by one son, Fred, of Highland County, three daughters, Mrs. Gilbert Wain, Mrs. Guy Roberts and Mrs. Denry Heath of Washington C. H. and three brothers, Charles of Columbus, Frank of Greenfield and Thomas of Washington C. H.

Funeral services will be Tuesday at 2 P. M. at the Klever Funeral Home. Rev. Frank Milner of Leesburg will be in charge of the services. Burial will be in the Washington C. H. cemetery.

Friends may call at the funeral home at any time.

DALE STUMP ANNOUNCES FOR ATTORNEY GENERAL

Dale Stump announced that he will be a candidate for attorney general of the state of Ohio at the Republican primary May 9.

Definite conclusion was reached by Mr. Stump after a state-wide radio broadcast and tabulations of the returns received by letter, wire and personal visitation.

Mr. Stump will open his campaign with a radio broadcast over WHKC (640 k. c.), 6:30 P. M. Tuesday.

SKYSCRAPER LUNCH WILL CHANGE LOCATION SOON

Tom Maddux will move his restaurant across the street from its present location on Court Street to an empty store-room next to Dale's Furniture Store. He said he needed a larger room to accommodate increased patronage.

Maddux has advertised that he will give $5 for a name for his restaurant in its new location.

How To Relieve Bronchitis

Creamulsion relieves promptly because it goes right to the seat of the trouble to help loosen and expel mucus, soothe and heal raw, tender, inflamed bronchial mucous membranes. Tell your druggist to sell you a bottle of Creamulsion with the understanding you must like the way it quickly allays the cough or you can have your money back.

CREOMULSION for Coughs, Chest Colds, Bronchitis

SHILTZ FUNERAL WILL BE TUESDAY AFTERNOON

Funeral services for Mrs. Cameron Shiltz will be held Tuesday at 2 P. M. at the House of Prayer in Jeffersonville, Rev. Henry Leeth of Washington C. H. will be in charge of the services.

Burial will be made in the Jeffersonville-Fairview Cemetery under the direction of the Morrow Funeral Home.

UNITED PRESS STORY 'FICTION,' SAYS APOLOGY

Effusion from London Saying Stalin Slapped General Admitted Fabrication

NEW YORK, March 6—(AP)—The United Press issued today the following statement:

"On February 14 the newspapers New York World-Telegram, New York Journal-American, Daily Mirror, Daily News and New York Herald Tribune published a dispatch of the United Press in which it was said that allegedly at a reception on the birthday of Prime Minister Churchill in Teheran, Marshal Timoshenko made a careless speech and Premier Marshal Stalin, in order to silence him, struck him.

"Simultaneously or next day the above mentioned newspapers and the New York Times published another dispatch of the United Press from Washington wherein President Roosevelt's statement was quoted denying this fictitious report of the London correspondent and pointing out that Marshal Timoshenko was not even present at Churchill's reception at Teheran.

"In connection with this the United Press finds it necessary to state the following:

"Actually, there was no incident at Churchill's reception at Teheran such as was mentioned in the report of the London correspondent of Feb. 14 and thus all this report is a fiction. The United Press has expressed its regrets that it circulated this fictitious dispatch.

"The United Press sent a telegram of apology to the Soviet government in which it is also stated that it took appropriate measures in order that similar reports should not be repeated in the future. The present denial is being given by the United Press in view of the unsatisfactory nature of the statement published Feb. 27 on this question."

veto. If this bill dies many congressmen are ready to rely on a 1942 service vote bill which leaves it to the states to set up their own war ballot laws.

Unemployment

The Truman committee sounded a warning today of an unemployment crisis in the not too distant future, unless government obstacles to civilian production are removed and greater use of surplus commodities permitted.

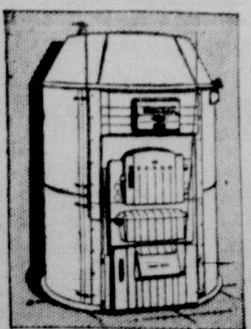

In the third annual report, the committee, headed by Senator Truman (D., Mo.), opposed the administration-endorsed national service law and recommended instead "a clear and understandable government labor relations policy."

Around the Town

Elsewhere on the Washington front: The War Labor Board ruled that a maintenance of membership clause in a union contract affecting editorial and reportorial newspaper workers is not a violation of freedom of the press. The Office of Price Administration established a new system of retail ceilings for used cameras and other photographic equipment effective April 6. . . The House Military committee closed its investigation of army plans to distribute a pamphlet on racial equality when the War Department abandoned plans to use the book in connection with its orientation courses.

Librarian Lists Sample of Volumes on Religious Themes

"The interest in religious books increases each Lenten season, but particularly during these years of war. Books for younger children, for growing youth and for the Bible student may be found on the shelves of the library here, together with others, both old and new," Miss Elizabeth Johnson, librarian, said today.

Books listed by Miss Johnson are:

Books For Children—Burdakin & Claxton, A Child's Grace; Curtis, The Story of the Bible People; Eggermeier, Bible ABC Book; Hogarth, A Bible ABC; Jones, Jesus and His Friends; Loveland, Illustrated Bible Stories; Maury, A First Bible; Petersham, Jesus' Story and Wee Folks' Life of Christ.

Books of Religious Instruction—The Bible Question B; Fifty-two Sermon Trails For Boys and Girls; Weist, Intermediate Worship Services; Whitwell; Peoubet's Select Notes On The International S.S. Lessons, Smith and Worship Programmes In The Fine Arts, Bays.

Reading For Spiritual Development—Butterick, Prayer; Clarke, I Will Lift Up Mine Eyes; Sizoo, Not Alone and Threikeld, Service And Prayers For Church and Home.

Books Of Permanent Interest—By An Unknown Disciple, Written in the form of another gospel to show the miracles possible through faith and love; Erdman, Answering Distant Calls, Lives of eighteen contemporary missionaries; Fosdick, Twelve Tests Of Character, Emphasizing the qualities necessary for right living; Hoh & Hoh, Two Minutes With God, A devotional book for use in the family circle; Komroff, The One Story, The life and teachings of Jesus, arranged from the King James' version, without additions or repetitions; Macartney, The Greatest Men Of The Bible, A series of biographical sermons and Petty, The Evening Altar, Sixteen chapters of spiritual reflections.

SOLDIER VOTE BILL BEING POLISHED UP; UNEMPLOYMENT LOOMS

perhaps the theater commanders—are so pressed by immediate war problems they can not give careful consideration to proposed changes.

Proponents of immediate action to consolidate the army, navy and air forces assert, however, the step would cause the least friction if taken now, when there is actual operating unity. Staff studies have been in progress for some time, and it may be that reports have been made by both army and navy. One of this country's outstanding military theorists, Brig. Gen. John McCauley Palmer, generally regarded as architect of the National Defense Act of 1920, has been recalled from retirement and assigned to special work by Gen. George C. Marshall.

On the navy side, at least one important individual has come out publicly for consolidation—Admiral H. E. Yarnell, retired. Yarnell, who commanded the Asiatic fleet when Japanese planes attacked and sank the U. S. gunboat Panay in China Dec. 12, 1937, has also been recalled to active duty, assigned to the office of Secretary Knox for an unannounced purpose.

Yarnell, however, is author of an article "A Department of War, published last August, which begins "When the war ends x x x" indicating his idea of when the change should be effected.

The Admiral's proposal goes much farther than some of the proposals suggested on the army side. It appears, for instance, to propose a single air force; army air enthusiasts are talking in terms of keeping some naval aircraft under navy—not air forces—command.

TOO MANY EMPLOYEES ON FEDERAL PAYROLL GOV. BRICKER SAYS

Ohio GOP Candidate Nears End of Florida Trip

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., March 6—(AP)—Gov. John W. Bricker of Ohio planned an address here in connection with his announced candidacy for the Republican presidential nomination while Florida Republicans were to decide on whether to designate or elect delegates to the GOP national convention.

All indications pointed to designation by the Florida state Republican Executive Committee of 15 unaffiliated and unpledged delegates to the national convention at Chicago.

Bricker, on the last leg of a southern swing, was asked at a press conference here Sunday if he believed a sales tax would be necessary to liquidate the war debt after he had stated an annual carrying charge of five to seven billion dollars was in prospect for the first few years after the war.

Bricker avoided a direct answer but asserted "much could be saved by cutting down on the three and a half million employees now on the federal payroll—they're not needed even now."

Bricker in an address at Chapel Hill, N. C., Saturday night asserted a "cloak of secrecy" was wrapped about operations of the Federal government.

Bricker asserted the president had "jeopardized the opportunity and privilege of the soldier to vote in the 1944 elections" and had "attempted to jam through the congress his particular soldiers' vote bill."

A Local Lady Spit Up Acid Liquids for Hours After Eating

For hours after every meal, a Washington C. H. lady used to spit up a strong, acidulous liquid mixed with pieces of half-digested food. She says it was awful. At times she would nearly strangle. She had stomach bloating, headaches and constant irregular bowel action. Today, this lady eats her meals and enjoys them. And she says the change is due to taking ERB-HELP. Her food agrees with her. No gas, bloating or spitting up after eating. She is also free of headaches now, and bowels are regular, thanks to this Remarkable New Compound.

ERB-HELP contains 12 Great Herbs; they cleanse bowels, clear gas from stomach, act on sluggish liver and kidneys. Miserable people soon feel different all over. So don't go on suffering! Get ERB-HELP. Finley's Drug Store.

PAPER PICK-UP WILL BE HELD NEXT SATURDAY

Rain Calls Off Scheduled Collection Last Saturday

You can save the newspapers that come to your house this week to add to the bundles you made last Saturday for the paper collection which was called off because of rain.

Maynard Craig, salvage chairman here, said the collection will be made next Saturday if weather permits. The bundled newspapers, magazines and corrugated paper will be placed on curbs for collection.

"War production and distribution depends upon paper" and unless we get 8,000,000 tons of waste paper in 1944 for use in the manufacture and shipment of vital war materials, serious disruption of our war economy may result," Donald M. Nelson, chairman of the War Production board, said.

"Containers, made principally from waste paper, are needed in ever-increasing volume to package food, ammunition and equipment for shipping overseas to American and Allied forces, Craig said.

He explained that war production officials have estimated about 33 percent more waste paper than is normally used must be salvaged from the homes and factories of America in 1944 to insure delivery of vitally needed war equipment for the expanding military operations in all the war zones.

Craig said the critical shortage of paper as a raw material for war production has resulted from two factors:

1. War activity, including the actual sending of paper into battle, has greatly increased demand for paper.

2. Despite increased demand for paper as raw material, production of woodpulp, original source of paper, has been greatly curtailed because of manpower shortages and wartime transportation limitations.

The fact that 600 mills are now using waste paper as a raw material as compared to 200 in normal times is an indication of the increased need for paper salvage Craig pointed out.

"The waste paper—newspapers, magazines, old books, wrappers, boxes—in the homes and business establishments of Washington C. H., is needed at once for important war work," Craig said.

In an appeal for sufficient waste paper to keep mills operating at full capacity, Rear Admiral Harry L. Brinser of the U. S. Navy said: "Delay in turning in waste paper for salvage may delay the return of your son from the war."
